

Here's an update on the demurrage and detention policy for the United States

We are looking forward to providing you with clarity concerning the application of detention and demurrage charges in the United States. Therefore, Detention and Demurrage days for both empty and full containers are being charged on dates when the gate is open, and the port is operational.

With the above in mind, we will not charge Detention and Demurrage for days when the gate is closed, and the port is non-operational due to holidays or any other events resulting in port closures.

In addition to the above, the import detention will be invoiced to the consignee for merchant haulage shipments.
