

Empty Container Redelivery Charge for U.S.

Expiry Date: until further notice
Publishing Date: August 21, 2026

In some instances, if the container is returned to a location other than the port from which it was initially picked up, Hapag-Lloyd charges a redelivery fee to cover those repositioning costs.

Should such a situation arise, please be advised that an Empty Container Redelivery Charge (POD) will apply per the following updated charges schedule. We kindly request you to keep this in mind when planning for the redelivery of containers.

A flat rate of USD 1,100 per container will apply at locations not listed above if the container is returned to a location other than the port from which it was originally picked up.

We understand the importance of efficient container pick-up and drop-off for your operations, and we want to provide you with the necessary details:

- Pick Up and Drop Off Conditions: Please be aware that equipment availability and logistical constraints may affect the pick-up and drop-off conditions. To obtain further information and confirmation from our Customer Service team, kindly contact your respective Sales office.
- Container Return to a Different Depot or Marine Port: If a container is returned to a depot or port other than the one agreed upon with our Customer Service Import department, charges outlined in the attached schedule (POD-charge) will apply.
- Redelivery Charge Responsibility: The cargo interest arranging the merchant haulage and redelivery at the inland point or marine location will be responsible for the redelivery charge. Billing for this charge will be processed after the equipment has been returned to the Carrier.
- Unlisted Depot Charges: If you require pick-up or drop-off at a depot not mentioned in the provided list, we will invoice you based on the pick-up and drop-off charge of the nearest geographically available depot.
- Confirmation and Inquiries: Please note that the information provided is subject to final confirmation. We strongly recommend checking with your nearest Hapag-Lloyd office to ensure the feasibility of pick-up and drop-off activities, ensuring a smooth transportation process.
- These changes do not apply to shipper-owned containers.

For further information or assistance, please contact your local Hapag-Lloyd office.
